

N. Achour Frydman is Professor at the University Paris Saclay medical school since 2011 and hospital Practitioner at the hospital Antoine Béclère, Head of the Reproductive Biology Unit. She is Medical Biologist (PharmD-PhD), specialized in reproductive biology. She co leads with Pr M Grynberg the Assisted Reproduction Technology Center of Antoine Béclère Hospital, which performs more than 1200 oocytes retrievals per year. This center takes in care also patients eligible for a PGD (pre implantation genetic diagnosis). Moreover in the last 4 years, a new platform has been set-up for fertility preservation, and nearly 800 women affected by cancer have already benefited of fertility preservation. Finally, N. Achour Frydman fundamental research is focused on human fetal ovary development at Inserm UMR 967 CEA Fontenay.