

Charles Dumontet is a hematologist in Lyon, France. He has specialized in hematological malignancies for the past 30 years and currently is the principal investigator of a multicenter study for the genetic analysis of familial dysglobulinemia (MGUS and multiple myeloma), with a database of more than 250 families. He is currently the P.I. of a research team in the Cancer Research Center of Lyon and Chair of the Research Council of the Hospices Civils de Lyon.