

Roman Hajek is Professor of Oncology, Head of the Department of Haematooncology in the University Hospital Ostrava and Vice-Rector for Strategy and Development at the University of Ostrava, Czech Republic. His research interests include multiple myeloma, bone marrow transplantation and immunotherapy. He is active chairman of the Czech Myeloma Group, main investigator of the randomized clinical trials phase III of Czech Myeloma Group and phase I/II/III of other clinical trials in MM including experimental immunotherapy and main investigator of more than 35 national grants. He has published over 450 scientific articles and book chapters and is an Editor of the journal European Journal of Haematology.