

Professor Sutcliffe is a children's Doctor and has 28 years in this discipline. As well as looking after acutely sick children in Central London he has a research team of 10 to supervise. They do a variety of projects, which aim to improve children's health from knowledge and innovation. Approximately 50% of those current studies are investigating the health of both children and women who have been treated and conceived with ART. Professor Sutcliffe has been conducting such studies since 1993 and is regarded as a world authority. He says, "I didn't plan it this way, but 99% perspiration 1% inspiration helps"
