

Biography – Professor Charles Kingsland MD FRCOG

Charles is Professor of Reproductive Medicine at Edge Hill University and a Consultant Gynaecologist at IVI UK.

He was founder of the Hewitt Fertility Centre which, under his leadership, has grown into Britain's largest provider of NHS fertility services, providing over 2,500 cycles of IVF for the North West region and North Wales.

Charles left his post in Liverpool in 2017 to take up an exciting new challenge with the world's largest group of fertility clinics which have recently opened their first clinic in the United Kingdom.

Charles has written and developed the highly successful Mastership course in Advanced Fertility Practice for Nurses which is now in its fourth year.

From 2010 to 2016, he was the Fellows Representative for the North West Region on the Council of the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists.

As media spokesman for the Royal College, Charles appears regularly on local and national radio and is a regular contributor to BBC television.
